

Email to Fax

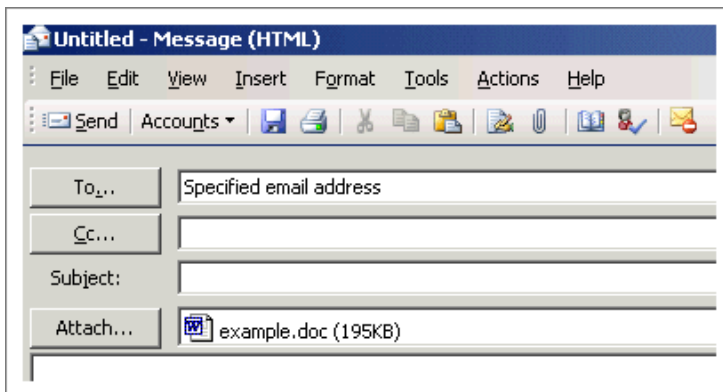

"Email to Fax provides significant gains in staff productivity as well as being cost efficient and environmentally prudent"

Facsimile continues to play a vital role in business communications. In fact fax transmissions still currently grow at around 20% per annum worldwide. Whilst an essential tool in many industries, there is scope for improvement in the way in which fax transmissions are implemented in many organizations. The traditional method of printing the document then waiting in line at the fax machine is both wasteful of personnel time and consumable inefficient.
